

6pm

Every now and then, the intimacy of the bedroom comes up with a perfect recipe for delicious electronic pop. Fresh hand-picked rhythms and digital delights stirred by sweet guitar melodies and playful vocal harmonies offer an excellent combination that will please the most demanding ears. If we flavour it with a measure of the warm sound of the trumpet, we can be sure we've found a unique listening experience.

Bio:

2003 - a fortuitous encounter in the Conservatory of Santiago de Compostela leads Raul Mon and Ivan Oubiña to meet again one sunny afternoon to explore their musical affinities.

After having their demo chosen as the third best of 2006 in the prestigious Projecto Demo contest organised by the Benicassim Festival, in October of that same year 6pm release "Far from perfect" their first LP with Junk Records, an indie label from Madrid. Plenty of great reviews push the record into the end-of-the year lists of spanish media and gives the band the possibility of touring extensively Spain and Portugal during 2007, managing to play in such important festivals as Primavera Sound in Barcelona or Paredes de Coura in Portugal.

Far from perfect:

Regardless of what the name may indicate, the first album of this Galician duo, has found the perfect balance between electronic and analog music. With their smoothing voices that carefully caress the melody and guitars with an unmistakable acoustic breeze, 6pm manage to integrate pop between zeros and ones, to warm up the electronic sensibility, achieving a sound that seems to have skin and touch, a temptation too hard to deny.
